CANADIAN 2c. RED-BROWN.

Not long ago I was asked what I thought of the Canadian two cent red-brown, and not having seen a copy, was taken a little by surprise, but on making a little enquiry came to the conclusion that the change in color was probably due to the action of some acid in the paper or gum. Although having the three cent of 1869-82 on entires in shades varying from rose to a bright brown-red, and having a single copy a complete brown, also noticing that while the early shades were rose those of the late years darken until distinctly of a brown tint. This I attributed to above facts or the atmosphere. A few days later while removing the paper from a lot of stamps which had been soaked and allowed to dry I came across a batch of this so called red-brown. On examining the first I noticed it was a perfect specimen of a red-brown stamp After picking out the rest of the batch I took up the first when 'Presto' the outer edge had turned to red, the conclusion I came to was that the change of color was due to fermentation and that on being exposed to the atmosphere it was turning back to it's original color.

Sweet Potato Gum.

To the Philatelist, anything concerning the printing and manufacture of stamps is of interest: it will therefore not be amiss to give some imformation regarding the gum used on the stamps of United States and her colonies.

This gum is made from the ordinary sweet potato, and is considered the most harmless preparation of it's kind in use. At the Buereau of Engraving and Printing, where the stamps are made are installed machines for the purpose of applying the gum and also for perforating the stamps.

In the basement of the building are large vats in which the gum is made, in liquid form it is then forced up through pipes leading to a series of

We regret not having published the Dominion Philatelist during the summer months, but this has been an extremely hot summer.

Canada's new issue has awakened the interest in philatelic circles and the enquiries both home and abroad are surprising. Now's your chance, both dealers and collectors.

machines consisting of rollers between which the sheets of stamps are fed one at a time A continuous fine stream of liquid gum falls upon one of the rollers, which distributes it thinly and evenly over the entire sheet and passes it on with it's wet coating of sweet potato mucilage into a long horizontal flue filled with hot air, from which it imerges with the gum thoroughly drv.

Some years ago, in fact after the first shipment of stamps to the Phillipine Islands, these stamps having arrived in a solid block, it was found that two kinds of mucilage were necessary, one for summer, the other for winter use. After being gummed the stamps are made up into packages which are labled "Summer Gum" or "Winter Gum", the Buereau thus being able to know exactly what stamps to send out. The Summer Gum is much harder and does not get sticky in warm moist weather.

The greatest care is taken in order to have the process of making and applying the gum done in as clean a way as possible.

SURCHARGES.

Surcharged stamps, over-prints or surcharges, as they are more generally called, are stamps on which a new value, name, or design has been printed; thus making them available for other purposes than for which they were originally intended.

A change in the postal rates may render a stamp of which the Government has a large supply already printed, almost useless; it is then over-printed with a new value: for instance, the Canadian 3c. numeral, overprinted 2 cent. Again, stamps
